

Bakers and Chefs with a Social Conscience

Can you make pasta with a side of social justice?

Or bake a scone while giving someone a pinch of confidence?

About Us – Nourishment for the Body and Soul

That's what we serve at the Hungry Heart Café, a top-rated restaurant and catering business in St. John's. It could be the commitment to using fresh, local ingredients or the menu that changes weekly or the standard of making things in-house. Or perhaps the Café's monthly theme night dinners (Malaysian-inspired food anyone?), guest chef nights, and pop up events.

But it's more than that!

The licensed Hungry Heart Café provides food services training to participants of Stella's Circle--people who need a hand up. Every penny of revenue generated by the Hungry Heart Café goes right back into funding employment training.

Looking for Bakers and Chefs

We are looking for bakers and chefs. But we want more than that. We want people who care, have a social conscience and a passion for social justice issues. You see the meaning in your work and the difference you can make in a dynamic commercial kitchen. You can't be ordinary. Because we're not.

Leadership is provided by the Executive Chef. Bakers and Chefs will provide menu items for the Café and catering operations and participate in other facets of menu production. You will ensure quality of products for our customers and ensure the cleanliness of the kitchen and meet all health and safety standards. As a valued member of the team, you will assist with menu preparation and development and model and instruct appropriate culinary techniques and kitchen behavior for trainees. And don't forget inventory maintenance and cost control!
